The Lipsus Solution

Lipsus is an innovative device solving the problem of painful, dry lips after surgery under full anesthesia without the need for intervention by medical staff or family. The device comes with a 300 cc water bag, allowing a flow rate of 15 cc/hour, which results in approximately 20 hours of continuous lip moisturizing.

An innovative lip moisturizing device for post surgery under full anesthesia

Lipsus is a proven product which has been tested at a major medical center in Israel. Lipsus has shown highly promising results as grateful patients have indicated that they experience increased comfort, and enthusiastic staff have overwhelmingly praised this innovative solution.

1 Lipsus provides controlled, continuous moisture to patients lips

2 Lipsus is easy to use for both medical staff and patients

3 Lipsus relieves dependence on family, and frees up time for staff

4 Lipsus maximizes patient well-being during recovery from surgery

Dedicated to patient-centered care

Making the Lipsus solution an integral part of your facility's post-surgery procedure is a continued step towards excelling in patient-centered care.

Time has stood still

In past decades we have witnessed unprecedented advances in all areas of the medical field. However, for one specific area of patient well-being and quality of life after surgery under general anesthesia, time has stood still. Due to the prohibition to drink water after such surgeries, recovering patients suffer greatly from dry, cracked lips.

Old methods

The current method of using wet gauze pads to relieve patients of this pain is primitive and requires constant support by staff or family, who, in addition, are not always immediately available to assist.

Very intense pain

Approximately 400 million surgeries under general anesthesia are performed around the world yearly. 59% of the patients of these surgeries will suffer from dry, cracked lips at a level 7 ranking ('very intense') on the pain scale from 0 to 10.

Introducing Lipsus

Lipsus takes care of all of these issues and makes them a thing of the past.
